Subject: Fwd: Sunrise Powerlink Project

To whom it may concern: I am not well informed about the process or the progress of the Sunrise Powerlink Project, but by looking at the maps available on-line the Interstate 8 alternative appears to make the most sense. It is about 1/2 as long as the Modified Route D alternative and that alone should result in less environmental impact. In addition the environment has already been impacted by the interstate. It makes sense to keep the ugly all in one corridor. I live in a solar powered home that is completely off grid. For that reason I am not very supportive of any alternative of the Sunrise Powerlink Project. I think electricity consumers should conserve and the SDGE should have more incentives to consumers who wish to enhance their homes with solar voltaic panels and sell electricity to SDGE.
