The existing view to the south toward the Route D Alternative crossing of San Diego River Canyon. This view is from Key Viewpoint 66 at the Inaja Monument Park Overlook. At a viewing distance of approximately six miles, the Route D Alternative would not be noticeable from the overlook, though with binoculars and clear atmospheric conditions, two or three structures may be visible in the canyon. More importantly, the Route D alternative would result in the removal and relocation of the wood-pole line that presently degrades the canyon view from the overlook.
