OPINION

L.D. Network (applicant), a California corporation, seeks a certificate of public convenience and necessity (CPCN) under Public Utilities (PU) Code § 1001 to permit it to resell interLATA telephone services in California. Applicant also seeks exemption from the requirements of PU Code §§ 816-830.

In Decision (D.) 90-08-032, 37 CPUC 2d 130, the Commission established two major criteria for determining whether a CPCN should be granted. First, the applicant must demonstrate that it has a minimum of $400,000 in uncommitted cash or equivalent financial resources. This minimum requirement increases 5% per year starting in 1991. Thus, the current minimum requirement is $420,000. Only under rare circumstances can a CPCN be granted when this requirement is not met (see 37 CPUC 2d at 148). In addition, an applicant is required to make a reasonable showing of technical expertise in telecommunications or related business. 1. Turk 1. Tur and the second control of the second control 1 California is divided into ten Local Access and Transport Areas (LATAs) of various sizes, each containing numerous local telephone exchanges. "InterLATA" describes services, revenues, and functions that relate to telecommunications originating in one LATA and terminating in another. "IntraLATA" describes services, revenues, and functions that relate to telecommunications originating and terminating within a single LATA.

Applicant submitted Exhibit B, which included a projected cash flow analysis covering its first year of operation. It proffered this analysis to support the argument that the rare circumstance exists and that applicant can successfully operate for the proposed first year without $420,000 in "uncommitted cash or equivalent financial resources." The projection estimates that until February 1992, when its resources will begin to exceed its expenses, applicant will incur approximately $60,000 in accumulated losses.

Exhibit B also presents a memorandum from applicant which states that its principal owners, David and Luana Yost, have elected to be the sole financial support. The Yosts, who also serve as chief financial officer and president, respectively, have access to $200,000 cash to cover initial negative cash flow. Supporting the memorandum are (1) the April bank statement of the Yosts revealing a balance of approximately $82,000 and (2) a copy of Yost's certificate of participation in his employer's profit sharing plan in which he is 100% vested and has unrestricted access to approximately $106,000. The memorandum also recites that applicant has acquired a portfolio of qualified investors assuring an additional $200,000, if issuance of corporate stock becomes necessary at investment rates. This total amount appears sufficient to meet all demands for wages, rents, wholesale interexchange carrier and local exchange company services, equipment, supplies and the applicable taxes and insurance for the first full year.

On May 31, the assigned administrative law judge issued a ruling requesting additional information on applicant's technical expertise in telecommunications or a related business. In response, applicant submitted a letter on June 4, detailing the technical expertise of its president and secretary, who jointly hold primary responsibility for the technical aspects of the business. Together the two officers have more than ten years' experience in the telecommunications business covering a range of responsibilities including sales, phone bill analysis, network design, account maintenance and management. Accordingly, it appears that the requisite expertise exists.

On June 29, 1983, the Commission issued Order Instituting Investigation (OII) 83-06-01 to determine whether competition should be allowed in the provision of telecommunication transmission service within the state. However, we limited the authority conferred to interLATA service; and we subjected the applicants to the condition that they not hold themselves out to the public to provide intraLATA service, pending our final decision in OII 83-06-01.

We also directed those persons or corporations not authorized to provide intraLATA telecommunication service to refrain from holding out the availability of such service; and we required them to advise their subscribers that intraLATA calls should be placed over the facilities of the local exchange company.

If applicant has an effective Federal Communications Commission (FCC) approved tariff, it may file a notice adopting such FCC tariff with a copy of the FCC tariff included in the filing. Such adoption notice shall specifically exclude the provision of intraLATA service. If applicant has no effective FCC tariffs, or wishes to file tariffs applicable only to California intrastate interLATA service, it is authorized to do so, including rates, rules, regulations, and other provisions necessary to offer service to the public. Applicant's initial filing shall be made in accordance with General Order (GO) 96-A, excluding Sections IV, V, and VI, and shall be effective not less than 1 day after filing.

Tariff filings shall reflect all fees and surcharges to which applicant is subject, as reflected in Conclusion of Law 2.
- 6. The requirements of GO 96-A relative to the effectiveness of tariffs after filing are waived to the extent that changes in FCC tariffs may become effective on the same date for California interLATA service for those companies that adopt the FCC tariffs.
- 7. Applicant shall file as part of its individual tariff, after the effective date of this order and consistent with Ordering Paragraph 4, a service area map.
