 (Filed February 4, 1982;
 amended March 19, 1982)

ORDER GRANTING PARTIAL STAY

By Decision (D.) 82-03-117 dated March 29, 1982 in Application 82-02-09, we, in summary, ordered that:

1. PG&E show why we should not require PG&E to suspend deliveries of residual fuel oil.
2. PG&E provide to the Commission and the parties certain economic data, and
3. Any party to the proceeding be allowed to inspect the PG&E-Chevron U.S.A. oil purchase contract.

On March 31, 1982, PG&E filed an application for a stay and rehearing of that portion of D.82-03-117 that provided that any party to the proceeding could review the contract.

On April 1, 1982 PG&E filed a petition for a protective order, partial stay, and modification of that portion of D.82-03-117 which provided that the economic data be served on all parties to the proceeding.

We believe that PG&E's request for a stay is reasonable. ✓
Until such time as we have analyzed the data regarding their potential for harm we will not require public distribution of the data nor will we allow parties access to the PG&E-Chevron U.S.A oil purchase contract.

This order is issued without notice on the public agenda because this is an emergency situation where irreparable harm could result if it is not issued.

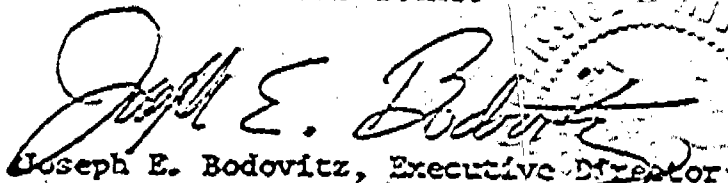

IT IS ORDERED that the portion of Ordering Paragraphs 2 and 3 requiring service of the specified data on all parties and Ordering Paragraph 7 of D.82-03-117 are stayed until the Commission has a further opportunity to review the issues presented in the petition for rehearing. The Commission plans to act thereon by April 8, 1982.

This order is effective today.

Dated April 6, 1982, at San Francisco, California.
