ORDER EXTENDING TIME

Ordering Paragraph 12 k. of Decision (D.) 82-12-120 directed the Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) to complete a revised study on line losses in cooperation with our staff and representatives from the independent power producer industry. The study was ordered filed with us within six months, or by June 30, 1983.

PG&E requests a three-month extension of time, indicating its study is taking more time because a large number of independent power producers are participating and requesting data. PG&E served its request for more time on all appearances. No objections have been received. We will authorize the extension of time. This order should be effective today because it is so close to the originally ordered filing date.

A.82-03-26 et al. ALJ/km

IT IS ORDERED that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company shall file the line loss study directed by D.82-12-120 within nine months of that decision's effective date, instead of within six months as originally ordered.

This order is effective today.

Dated JUN 29 1983, at San Francisco, California.
