Subject: RE: Marin Energy Authority Request For Customer-Specific Personal Financial Information

Good Morning, Chris--

I'm rather late in responding to this note, due to post-holiday catch-up, but I'd like to suggest the following as a means of providing Marin with some useful information, while also honoring the Commission's customer privacy concerns:

I'd like to suggest that Energy Division could send PG&E a formal data request for the following information:

1. For each of the communities in Marin that belong to MCE, PG&E would provide a redacted customer-specific list, showing the amount that each customer has on deposit with PG&E. The list would also indicate type of customer, by customer class.
2. On that list, PG&E would also show the amount of the PG&E-held deposit that (presumably) PG&E will return to that customer, once PG&E no longer supplies energy to that customer.
3. PG&E would also be asked to provide its rules for "sizing" the deposits it requires of its customers. If PG&E wished to provide that only to the Energy Division, we could consider that request, then figure out together how to summarize that information for Marin, if appropriate.

In this way, Marin would get an idea of the total deposit amounts that exist today, along with the percentage of customers in each customer class that have a deposit arrangement, and why, so that they know something useful about their likely future financial exposure.

Also, Energy Division will receive useful confirmation that these customers will, in fact, be receiving a proportionately proper refund of their PG&E-held deposits.

Please let me know what you think of the above approach--I'm sure we can work collaboratively to resolve this in a way that works for PG&E, Marin, and the Commission.

Subject: Marin Energy Authority Request For Customer-Specific Personal Financial Information

Greg, thanks for your December 16, 2009, letter, providing Marin Energy Authority's request for customer-specific personal financial information relating to customer security deposits. Attached is PG&E's response to your request. I will be in and out of the office through the end of the year, but will be checking emails and voicemails. Feel free to contact me if you have any questions. Have a great holiday!

Chris
