For the Western Conference of Public Service Commissioners (WCPSC) 2010 Meeting.
June 13 - June 16, 2010
Ojai Valley Inn and Spa — Ojai, California

Hosted by the California Public Utilities Commission, this year's theme is Greening the Wild West—It's More Than You Think.

In keeping with California's reputation of being on the cutting edge of technology and innovation, the 2010 WCPSC will include a Green Tech Summit, offering Commissioners and utilities hands-on exposure to several pioneering tech companies offering green products and services—everything from the latest Home Area Network device to electric storage and alternative vehicles.

There will also be dynamic discussions and high-profile speakers on topics including the cost of a green energy system, engaging customers in new technologies, the nexus between energy and water, technologies and decisions needed for a Smart Grid, state vs. federal regulation of VoIP, the current and future status of investment in clean energy technology, and green jobs.

We look forward to hosting you in California and creating a stimulating and relevant experience together. See you in Ojai!
