THE WEST LEADS THE WAY: A PATH TO OUR ENERGY FUTURE

As a region, the Western United States is emerging as a world leader in conceptualizing and developing energy solutions for the future. The Western Chapter of the Energy Bar Association is proud to present this outstanding program of panels and speakers, designed for lawyers and industry professionals who want to stay abreast of the exciting changes taking place, both in the West and nation as a whole. The wide-ranging program features prominent policy-makers and industry representatives. Attendees will gain a wealth of information and insight, in a compact, focused and diverse one-day session. As in past years, the Western Chapter also will host a reception for speakers and attendees the evening prior to the meeting, on Thursday, February 18, for the benefit of the Charitable Foundation of the Energy Bar Association.

To Be Announced

10:30 - BREAK
10:45 a.m.

10:45 - NEW APPROACHES TO RENEWABLE GENERATION
12:00 p.m.

9:15 - SMART GRID

10:30 a.m.

Smart Grid promises to change the way the power system operates, from accommodating intermittent renewable resources, to reducing the length of distribution outages, to smart meters that will change the way people use electricity. This panel looks at the implementation of the Smart Grid from the generator to the end user and the legal issues involved.

Across the West, states are adopting renewable energy standards, and thousands of new megawatts of renewable facilities have been proposed. But there are many challenges ahead, including project development and financing, transmission and siting, environmental impacts, and costs for customers. This panel will explore these challenges – and possible solutions – from the perspective of a regulator, a project developer, an environmentalist, and a ratepayer advocate.

Panel Chair: Charles R. Middlekauff
Pacific Gas and Electric Company

2:15 -
3:30 p.m.

ELECTRIC TRANSMISSION PLANNING AND GROWTH IN A NEW DECADE

Panelists: The Honorable Kristin K. Mayes
Chairperson
