Hi Steve,

Just wanted to check back in with you to see if you had a chance to look through and if you had any specifics regarding further information or format?

Let me know
Thank you
Reza

Good morning Steve,

As a follow up to my voice to you Friday afternoon, attached is a file that is currently under review. It contains all actual meter deployments by month and by meter reading office. This was the most accurate way to get you actual information on the past deployments. the sites generally start with a few meters per month as pre-deployment activities and you can identify when the mass deployment began by the jump in the installed numbers.

Combined with what Karen provided you earlier for the future plans, this should provide you with the information you are looking for. We are currently reviewing this data pull and will provide it through a formal DR response. Meanwhile, if you let me know the format you would like the data, we can work on that as well prior to submitting the supplemental response.

Thanks

PG&E folks,

I'm afraid this is NOT what I requested several weeks ago. I've attached my note with that request, and I think it is pretty clear that I requested the schedule from "day 1", not the schedule going forward: "I had asked you for a version of this that displays the entire deployment, from the very first month several years ago, to whatever month is expected to be the final month of deployment in PG&E's service territory."

Could you take another look and provide the info I originally requested?

I'm sorry for the mix-up, I realize we are all juggling too much right now.

Thanks,

Steve Roscow
