I've got it blocked off. Thanks for coordinating (speaking as the one who normally has to do this, yikes it's no fun!)

Julie and all,

I think we have consensus that Monday afternoon from 3-5 pm would work for most of the parties (all sides) to provide a collective update to CPUC staff on where we are in the QF Summit term sheet negotiations. I've cleared with Becky Cunningham that Monday afternoon would work for Frank (assuming he can get back to SF by then), and with any luck the Sen. Florez hearing on Monday will be completed by 3:00. So please hold Monday 3-5 pm for the QF Summit -- I will send you an appointment if that makes it easier. Not sure yet if this will be a phone call only, or in person for those who can (we'll provide a phone number for those who can't); I'll update that as we get closer.

My understanding is that folks made substantial progress on the term sheet yesterday (at least Roy felt they did), which should help to resolve the arbitration process proposal, as well. They are at it again today and hopefully will continue to make progress. Maybe you were right about folks settling in your forced absence, Julie!

Thanks. For what it's worth, my schedule next week is not great. I am completely unavailable Tuesday. Wednesday and Thursday I will be in Sacramento both mornings for budget hearings, and I am also likely in Sacramento Monday morning for the Senator Florez Smart Meter hearing. So, M, W or Thurs afternoons are my only possibilities, (Friday a possibility also with some rearranging), and my afternoon timing could be unpredictable depending on how long the hearings go and where we get scheduled on the agenda.
