Paul -

Thank you so much for participating as a speaker at last week's PowerPathway™ New Energy Workforce convening in San Ramon. This was truly a terrific day, and we were so pleased you were able to be there to help us make it such a big success. Our objective in hosting this event was twofold: 1) to provide participants with an understanding of the full scope of the PowerPathway initiatives and the future workforce requirements of the energy industry, and 2) to recognize the valued partners and members of PG&E's PowerPathway community. We hope you agree that we achieved these goals.

Here are some of the comments received so far:

"What an excellent day you put together on May 14th in San Ramon.

I personally found it extremely worthwhile and am very appreciative of being included. Great job."

"Thank you for organizing a very comprehensive and thought-provoking conference. It was an excellent event overall and hopefully just the beginning of this type of dialogue and broad collaboration."

“Congratulations on putting together an excellent conference last Friday and bringing together industry, education, government, labor, and CBOs.”

We look forward to on-going partnerships with you and our many other internal and external stakeholders.

All the best,

Van Ton-Quinlivan & the PG&E PowerPathway Team
