Re: Comments of Pacific Gas and Electric Company Supporting Making Permanent the Commission's Section 851 Advice Letter Pilot Program, Most Recently Adopted in Resolution
ALJ-244

Dear Judge Prestidge:

Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) appreciates the opportunity to respond to Chief ALJ Karen Clopton's letter of May 14, 2010, requesting comments on the Commission's advice letter Pilot Program (Pilot Program) for expedited disposition of certain filings required by Public Utilities (P.U.) Code Section 851 (Section 851). As the Commission is well aware, Section 851 requires public utilities to obtain prior authorization from the Commission before selling, leasing, assigning, or otherwise disposing of or encumbering utility property that is not necessary or useful in the provision of utility service.

PG&E appreciates that the Commission promptly adopted Resolution ALJ-244 earlier this year to incorporate amendments to Sections 851 and 853(d) adopted in Assembly Bill (AB) 698 (Skinner) Stats. 2009, ch. 370. While Resolution ALJ-244 updated the prior Resolution (ALJ-202) to conform with current law, it also extended for an additional year (to August 23, 2011) the Pilot Program originally adopted in Resolution ALJ-186 (ALJ-186) and amended by Resolution ALJ-202 to test procedures for expediting Commission consideration of certain categories of Section 851 transactions. The Commission did so in order to allow all interested parties time to provide comments on the following three issues:

- The overall effectiveness of the Pilot Program;
- Any additional proposed changes to the Pilot Program; and
- Whether the Pilot Program should be continued, made permanent, or allowed to expire in August 2011.

In summary, PG&E believes that over the past almost 5 years, the Pilot Program has been increasingly achieving the goal of expediting CPUC decisions on eligible Section 851 transactions, which for PG&E have been non-controversial, very routine matters with a small average transaction value – and thus are inherently quite ministerial in nature. PG&E presents a few recommendations for further improving the pilot program, including that:

- (1) The Energy Division should rapidly develop and implement an internal CPUC process for routinely and rapidly utilizing the new Director’s Approval Letter for uncontested 851 Advice Letters in which the CPUC is not performing CEQA review; and
- (2) The CPUC should proceed to adopt a “de minimus” transaction exemption under Section 853(b), such as exempting all uncontested, non-CEQA transactions with values under $50,000, because, based on PG&E data, the average associated administrative costs for such transactions appears to exceed the average value of these transactions.

With these types of changes to increase the Pilot Program’s efficiency, PG&E recommends that ALJ-244 be made permanent. PG&E looks forward to continuing to work with CPUC staff in constructive ways to achieve further improvements, including in the ways discussed in these comments, and looks forward to seeing the comments of other parties as well.

1. OVERALL EFFECTIVENESS OF THE PILOT PROGRAM

The stated goal of the Pilot Program was to “simplify the disposition of certain types of Section 851 transactions.” (ALJ-186, p. 1). Since its inception in 2005, PG&E has, in general, found the Commission’s 851 Advice Letter Pilot Program to be a smart and simple approach to achieving greater efficiencies though expedited Commission consideration of eligible categories of Section 851 transactions.

PG&E presents below its tracking data on the 54 Section 851 Advice Letters PG&E has filed under the Pilot Program since 2005.¹ Despite service on a large list of interested parties, none of PG&E’s Section 851 Advice Letters has been protested, rather the transactions are typically quite routine and of small value,² and all such filings have ultimately been approved by the CPUC without modification.

Had the Pilot Program not been in place, these transactions would have placed a much greater burden on the resources of the Commission, the utilities and other interested parties because the prior formal application process previously required for all Section 851 transactions was clearly too cumbersome for these transactions. Nonetheless, the data in the table below shows that, even though the Pilot Program has resulted in some improvement in time to approval and other efficiencies, the CPUC, as well as utilities and interested parties, still appear to expend disproportionate resources relative to the small size and routine nature of the typical transactions PG&E has filed under the Program.

By implementing the suggestions PG&E provides in Section 2 below, PG&E believes the CPUC's average time to approval can further be improved such that the 120-day period provided in the statute would never be violated. PG&E's belief is based on its experiences to date, as captured in Section 1.A. below:

A. Although Time to Approval Has Progressively Improved for PG&E's Filings Under the Pilot Program, about a Third of PG&E's 851 Advice Filings Still Take the CPUC Longer than Statute's 120-day Approval Period Indicating Further Improvement is Needed.

One measure of whether the Pilot Program has succeeded at "simplifying the disposition" of eligible transactions is the average time for approval after filing. Table 1 shows that the CPUC's time to review and approve PG&E's Section 851 advice letters since Resolution ALJ-186 took effect in 2005 has become progressively shorter on average for review and approval of Advice Letters (ALs) filed under the Pilot Program:

PG&E 851 Advice Letters During Pilot Period

Table - 1	Number of ALs	Avg Days to Approval
ALs under ALJ-186 (9/05 - 8/22/07):	23	129
ALs under ALJ-202 (8/23/07 - 02/24/10):	22	89
ALs under ALJ-244 (2/25/10 - present):	3	91
ALs for Sole Customer Facility Sales (D.99-12-030):	6	71
Total	54

The overall average number of days for Commission approval of advice letters under the Pilot Program (counted as the number of days between the dates PG&E submits its advice letters up to the dates the Commission either issues a resolution or approval letter) is currently 109 days on average, which is within the 120-day timeframe for Commission action on advice letters provided for under statute and the Pilot Program. Still, approximately one-third of all PG&E 851 Advice Letters to date have taken more than the allotted 120-day period to be approved despite the statutory requirement. In fact, some uncontested Advice Letters were not approved until 9 to 12 months from filing -- yet none of these Advice Letters was contested and all were ultimately approved. (PG&E attaches as Exhibit B a cumulative listing of all 54 PG&E 851 Advice Letters submitted under the Pilot Program to date. This list complies with ALJ-244, Appendix A, p. 9, Part IX, and was previously provided to Energy Division. However, Exhibit B herein has been updated as of June 14, 2010 and supersedes PG&E's prior submittal.)

PG&E appreciates Energy Division staff's continued efforts aimed at improving its time for issuing 851 Advice Letter approvals. In 2008, PG&E began holding pre-filing meetings two or three times a year with CPUC Staff then-assigned to Section 851 review whenever PG&E had upcoming Advice Filings that included issues that would benefit from prior discussion or involved highly time-sensitive transactions. At these meetings, PG&E was also able to generally discuss 851-related issues and provide input valuable to PG&E's final drafting of the filing, as well as to provide Staff with background information to assist Staff in prioritizing and managing its 851 workload so that, for particularly time-sensitive 851 transactions, the associated ratepayer benefits would not be lost or delayed. PG&E is grateful for Energy Division staff's willingness to work collaboratively in this way, applauds Staff's efforts to improve the time to approval, and hopes this trend will continue.

PG&E believes that another factor helping achieve more expedited approvals is that Staff has become increasingly familiar with the standard form PG&E continues to use for all of its 851 Advice Letters (directly patterned on the categories of information identified as being required under the Pilot Program). PG&E believes consistent use of this form makes it easier for staff to quickly perform its review. PG&E recommends that the Energy Division consider attaching to Resolution ALJ-244 (and/or a successor Resolution) a template "Form for 851 Advice Filings," so that all utilities may easily refer to a standard form that works well for expediting Energy Division's review. PG&E would welcome the opportunity to work with Energy Division in this regard, if desired.

The various departments within PG&E that generate transactions that can be subject to Section 851 process have consistently expressed their pleasure with the Commission's Pilot Program and anticipate that it would be adopted permanently, though they would like to see the CPUC's time to approval further improve, including through utilization of Energy Division Director's new Approval Letter process authorized by AB 698, effective January 1, 2010, and embodied in Resolution ALJ-244 adopted earlier this year.

B. A.B. 698 and the Opportunity For Further Efficiencies

As one means toward achieving greater efficiencies under the Pilot Program, PG&E is proud to have sponsored AB 698 in 2009, with the support of the CPUC, and is pleased that it was adopted by the Legislature and has now become law. This bill consists of two provisions. First, it amended Section 851 to allow the Commission's Executive Director or appropriate Division Director to issue a letter approval for uncontested 851 advice letters for transactions of $5 million or less and where CPUC environmental (CEQA) review is not required (either as Lead or Responsible Agency). Second, it amended Section 853(d) to allow utilities to use an advice letter rather than a full application to request approval of certain transactions valued at $5 million or less that require CEQA review by the Commission as a Responsible Agency. However results for the first six months since this bill became law indicate that the CPUC can do more to make the most of the efficiencies these amendments provide for. Therefore, PG&E's comments in section 2 below suggest some means by which the CPUC could make further progress in achieving the goals of simplification and time-efficiency for uncontested Section 851 advice filings.

Since the CPUC's adoption of Resolution ALJ-244 to incorporate these amendments into the Pilot Program, PG&E is pleased to report that the Energy Division Director has already issued letter approvals for six PG&E 851 Advice Letters. PG&E hopes the Energy Division Director and staff will continue this in the future, so as to achieve the greatest efficiency of staff time utilization as well as to further expedite the average time to approval. The Approval Letter process obviates that need for Staff to undertake the "busy work" of regurgitating in Resolution format the showing that has already been presented in the Advice Letter. Rather staff performs the same substantive review, but then attaches the Advice Letter to the Approval Letter. This was in fact Commission practice under Resolution ALJ-186, and that flexibility has been restored under Resolution ALJ-244 as required by AB 698. The Approval Letter process also frees up staff time that would be expended in arranging to place the draft resolution on the CPUC's agenda for an upcoming decision conference (which adds to the delay in the time when the underlying transaction can become effective). PG&E suggests below in Section 2.A. how CPUC could further improve and make more routine its use of the Approval Letter option where appropriate.

2. ADDITIONAL PROPOSED CHANGES TO THE PILOT PROGRAM

While PG&E believes the Pilot Program is generally working well and represents an improvement on the prior requirement that all 851 filings be full applications, PG&E provides some suggestions for improvements that would better achieve the stated goal of simplification and efficiency. Specifically, PG&E recommends that the CPUC:

- Make routine the CPUC's decision to use ED Director Approval Letters for uncontested Section 851 filings; and
- Have the Energy Division explore whether the CPUC should establish a de minimus exception to exempt from Section 851 transactions whose value is lower than $30,000, using P.U. Code Section 853(b) to do so, on the grounds that public policy interests do not warrant the expenditure of ratepayer and taxpayer dollars necessary to process such approvals since the average value of such approvals is far below the cost to review them.

A. The CPUC Should Make Routine And More Prompt its Use of the Industry Division Director Level Approval for Uncontested Section 851 Advice Filings.

PG&E believes it is time for the CPUC to take further steps to address the practical realities discussed above in Section 1, and to better ensure that ratepayer benefits, such as lease revenues, are not lost or delayed due regulatory lag. Therefore, PG&E recommends that the CPUC proceed now to set up routine internal processes and dedicate a portion of certain staff's time to ensure that the CPUC issues an Approval Letter as promptly as possible after no protests have been received on an eligible 851 Advice Letter (i.e., start the Approval Letter process shortly after the deadline to protest these Advice Letters which is 20-days after it is filed and served).

PG&E is pleased that since the adoption of ALJ-244, Section 851 authorization has been already granted through Energy Division Director Approval Letters for seven uncontested transactions. (Four were pending but not decided at the time ALJ-244 became effective, and three were filed since ALJ-244 was adopted.) Still, the average time to approval for the most recent 3 uncontested Section 851 Advice Letters was 91 days (a full 3 months), even with an Approval Letter disposition. PG&E believes this 91 day recent average approval interval could fairly easily be reduced to more like 45 to at most 60 days now that the CPUC has gained initial experience in using this efficient tool. For example, a "tickler" could be placed into several responsible Staff members' calendars that would cause there to be an automatic confirmation shortly after the 20-day protest period expired for each Section 851 Advice Filing as to whether any protests had been filed. Where there have been no protests, the Energy Division's review of the transaction could commence and an Approval Letter could be issued soon thereafter, if appropriate. Performance review metrics could also be aligned with incentivizing prompt issuance of 851 approvals.

By taking such steps, the CPUC should be able to use the Approval Letter process to further reduce its average time to approval -- possibly to something like 45 or at most 60 days from filing. Establishing routine processes for timely use of this important tool should also enable the CPUC to avoid exceeding the 120-day statutory time-frame, which unfortunately has happened with over a third of PG&E's 851 Advice Filings to date under the Pilot Program.

B. The CPUC Should Explore whether the CPUC should Make De Minimus Transactions Exempt Under P.U. Code Section 853(b), at least for Energy Utilities.

While the Advice Letter Pilot Program has helped to avoid some of the pre-Pilot inefficiencies in the expenditure of CPUC staff, utility and other parties' time on what are generally very routine matters or nominal value, as discussed above, PG&E believes the outlay of staff time to date still represents a disproportionate allocation of resources relative to the average Section 851 transactional value and relatively low importance relative to other matters the CPUC must address.

Out of the 54 filings PG&E has made under the Pilot Program to date, approximately 32 Advice Letters (or 59%) were under $50,000 and approximately 25 Advice Letters (or 46%) were for transactions under $10,000 in value.³ For example, approximately one-third of PG&E's Section 851 Advice Letters to date were for routine easement transactions with an average value of $15,602.47.

However the value of time expended in preparation of the Advice Letter showing plus the CPUC staff's time for review and approval, on average, combines to about $11,000.⁴ If the CPUC had adopted a $30,000 de minimus exception in mid-2008, using PG&E's 851 Advice Letters decided in 2009 – 2010 as an example, 13 filings would not have been needed, the average value of which was $416, far below the average estimated administrative costs of $11,000 for each such filing. PG&E believes there is good public policy reason to investigate whether Section 853(b) should now be utilized to implement a de minimus exception. If the CPUC had previously adopted a $30,000 de minimus threshold, the average value of PG&E's transactions that would have been avoided would still only be $5,492, still well below the $11,000 average cost for processing. Even if the CPUC had adopted a $50,000 threshold, the average value of the PG&E transactions that would have been eligible still comes to only $9,434, which also remains below the $11,000 average staffing time costs for processing these 851 Advice Filings.

When the CPUC adopted Resolution ALJ-186 it specifically noted that “we will consider further use of exemptions from Section 851 under Section 853(b).” (ALJ-186, p. 2.)

PG&E believes that, at least for energy utilities, the CPUC has enough experience under the Pilot Program to now take steps to utilize P.U. Code Section 853(b) to implement a de minimus exception to Section 851 approvals of transactions that are under a certain amount (and PG&E suggests that a threshold between $30,000 - $50,000 be explored).⁵ Anything that can allow the CPUC to focus its precious resources on higher priority matters would be prudent public policy. Exempting transactions whose regulatory processing costs are greater than the average values of those same transactions makes good, pragmatic sense, especially given a track record of no known protests to 851 Advice Letters (at least for PG&E). A further benefit is that reducing the total number of 851 Advice Letters as to which CPUC staff time must be allocated should also help the CPUC to ensure that all of the remaining 851 Advice Letters are acted on before 120-day approval period expires.

3. THE PILOT PROGRAM SHOULD BE MADE PERMANENT

Given that the Section 851 statute includes the key Advice Letter eligibility provisions as a requirement, PG&E continued to believe that CPUC cannot legally “allow the Pilot Program to expire in August 2011” lest it violate the statute itself.⁶ The regulatory details provided in Resolution ALJ-244 remain helpful to parties to provide further clarity on how the statute’s provision for such Advice Letter filings is to be implemented.

⁵ PG&E proposes that de minimis transactions be defined as transactions that meet all of the criteria for advice letters under the Pilot Program (as modified pursuant to PG&E’s proposals) with one exception: the fair market value thresholds would be $50,000 (or possibly as low as $30,000 depending on the CPUC’s own investigation of the relevant data). This exemption would not apply to transactions that involve activities for which environmental review required under CEQA has already been performed by an entity other than the Commission acting as lead agency (consistent with AB 698’s amendments to Section 853(d)). PG&E recommends that in adopting a de minimus exemption, the CPUC require utilities to provide an annual, after the fact notification to the applicable Industry Division of all such de minimus transactions. Such notice could include the name of the third party, the nature of the transaction, the fair market value of the transaction, and the date on which it was entered, as well as any other information the CPUC wishes to track regarding such exempt transactions.

⁶ Resolution ALJ-244 itself stated the third issue differently than did Chief ALJ Clopton’s letter. The Resolution itself focused on: “Whether the Pilot Program should be continued, made permanent, or modified without conflicting with the statute itself.” (Resolution ALJ-244, p. 1, emphasis added.) This language had been suggested in PG&E’s February 2010 comments on the draft Resolution, which pointed out that the CPUC cannot legally entirely “eliminate” this Advice Letter process because it is expressly provided for in the statute, at least for eligible transactions (not exceeding $5 million and not requiring CPUC review as lead agency). The Pilot Program builds upon and fleshes out how the statute is to be implemented but the CPUC cannot change its terms without an action of the Legislature.

Therefore, for the reasons stated above, PG&E recommends that the Pilot Program be made permanent, and that the CPUC implement the requested improvements to even better achieve the goal of simplifying and making as efficient as possible the CPUC's Section 851 process.

Sincerely,
