Thanks so much, Trina. Well, it sounds like congratulations to you as well in your new position. At least I hope that it's something you've had your eye on! I look forward to hearing all about it at some point. And if not at the CPUC, perhaps at a poker party!

Hi Cheryl, no problem! I was very happy to hear your news and you shouldn't feel obligated to be the first to share it (these things get out of the building quickly, as you know!). It's well-deserved. I've taken a job at PG&E that requires me to spend less time at 505 Van Ness now, but I still find my way over there every now and then. I'll definitely let you know next time I'm going to be there and hopefully we can catch up. Congratulations again!

Hi Trina - I'm sorry

I didn't get a chance to talk with at the CPUC meeting the other day. I was going to drop you a note last week to let you know that I had gotten the policy advisor position, but things have been a bit whirlwind - and it sounds like you had heard. I just wanted to thank you for all your support when I was going through the application process.

It would be great to get together for coffee at some point when you find yourself over this way...
