This file also contains eight attachments that include the detailed calculations and material referenced in the DR. Hi Chris,

On the first one, we are targeting obtaining final review comments this week and providing you the response by Wednesday June 9 (earlier if possible).

On the second part, the draft is being completed this week after initial reviews of all contracts and project documentation are complete and the data for the analysis has been compiled. We are targeting providing you the response by Wednesday June 23 (earlier if possible) after the reviews within business teams and legal teams are completed.

As we discussed on May 10, this has required a large analysis effort and has required the involvement of many subject matter experts and project/contract documentation. That is the reason why I had first asked for confirmation that you had indeed requested an up to date analysis rather than previous data. If there is any possibility to expedite the answers, we will.

Please let me know any further questions
Thanks
Reza

Data Request DRA-12/ED-XX (Bakersfield)

Reza,

This morning you indicated that PG&E will be answering this data request in two parts:

1.

An analysis of the lost benefits from a moratorium on the AMI deployment (will answer next week).

2. An analysis of the contract penalty and other costs from a moratorium (will answer 2 - 3 weeks from now).

My boss would like specific due dates for both parts. She is questioning me why the answers are taking so so. So anything you could do to expedite these responses would be appreciated.

Thanks,
Chris
