Dear Interested
Participants,

Notice for Public Posting of the Residential New Construction
(RNC) Market Effects (ME) Study-Phase II Final

Draft Report

Public Comments Period: November 10-24, 2010

The final draft on Phase II of the California Residential New Construction Market Effects Study is now posted at www.energydataweb.com/cpuc

The RNC ME study for single-family homes in California is being performed in two phases. The first phase covered the market and attribution analysis of the California IOU residential new construction (RNC) programs. Phase I, using primarily qualitative methods, established that there is sufficient qualitative evidence of market effects that may reasonably be attributed to the IOU RNC programs.

In this report, Phase II quantified the market effects including the following tasks: analysis of market effects, attribution analysis, estimation of net energy and demand savings and sustainability assessment.

If you have questions/comments please add them to the comment section on the website. Please note that only written comments/questions will be addressed. The last day for posting questions/comments on this report is November 24, 2010.
