This response includes documents that contain sensitive and competitive information pertaining to PG&E customers, including their business names, contact names, phone numbers, locations, noncore status, gas load, and account numbers. For these reasons, and only for these reasons, PG&E is providing this response to CPSD pursuant to Public Utilities Code section 583. The dissemination of customer information contained in this response raises privacy and competitive concerns. QUESTION 1

Please provide a copy of PG&E's Noncore curtailment list.

ANSWER 1

Please see CPUC_044-Q02Atch01 for PG&E's Noncore curtailment list.

On November 22, 2010, PG&E provided to CPSD via e-mail a template of the letter PG&E is sending to these customers to communicate the expected levels of curtailment for their facilities in the event of a local curtailment and to encourage customers to prepare if these local constraints should occur. PG&E's e-mail to CPSD also contained a copy of the Peninsula 2010 Winter Planning document that PG&E is sharing with these customers, which illustrates the extent of curtailment during three curtailment scenarios.
