I can vouch for Michael. As you can see, PG&E invested a considerable amount in his training. Please pass him on for interviews. He is not afraid of hard work and has a wife expecting. Thank you! Regards,

Hello Tim:

Thank you for your assistance. Attached is a resume of my background and experience. In my 19-years with Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), my achievements were significant; and, I am interested in returning to work there.

Upon completion of PG&E's Customer Services Management Training Program I worked at and was exposed to virtually every operational job within the Company. Afterwards, I managed Customer Service Offices throughout PG&E's service territory (San Rafael, Napa, Vallejo, Paso Robles to name a few). And, represented the Company as a media and political representative. I also worked as an instructor and trained staff at the Company's East Bay offices (Berkeley, Concord, Oakland, East Oakland, Livermore, Hayward).

Throughout the second-half of my career with PG&E I was stationed at the Company's General Office in San Francisco. Here, I worked closely with Senior Management, and:

- Co-authored the Company's Cost-of-Capital Testimony for presentation to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and the California Public Utilities Commission
- Served as Assistant Corporate Secretary
- Served as Assistant Transfer Agent and Director of Shareholder Services
- Coordinated the Company's Annual Meeting of Shareholders; and, served as an Inspector of Election

An evaluation of my resume will further acquaint you with my qualifications.

I have a strong understanding of Marketing and Relationship Management and have a positive can-do attitude. I am an excellent communicator and effective in dealing with a variety of individuals. I also maintain a strong work ethic. I am interested in working at PG&E in the areas of Customer Operations and/or Corporate Relations.

Any of the following PG&E positions would be an excellent fit for someone with my experience and background:

- Marketing Manager - Statewide Marketing and Integration Solutions
- Customer and Community Relationship Manager
- Program Marketing Manager
- Call Center Director

Facilities
Manager

Manager,
Emergency
Response

Major
Account Representative

External
Communications
Representative

I would appreciate the opportunity to further explore my background with someone at PG&E.

Sincerely,

Mike
