Subject: License Renewal News Release

This morning, PG&E sent the attached letter to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission requesting that they delay the final processing of our license application until we have completed our 3-D seismic studies and submitted the report to the NRC addressing the results of those studies.

In the aftermath of the Japan earthquake, PG&E has heard the concerns raised regarding the importance of seismic safety and takes these concerns seriously. The approach outlined in the letter will allow work to continue on the license application while ensuring that the NRC has this critical piece of information before proceeding with final processing of the renewal application.
