Marzia and Lindsay - with regards to bonus depreciation, I wanted to point out that in our initial set of talking points on the then-Water Resolution (appended above, excerpted below) pointed out that bonus depreciation is really for large businesses that intend to spend more than $2 million in capital. Smaller businesses get tax benefits from other parts of the Obama Act. Bonus depreciation was not designed to appeal to small businesses at all. I hope this clarifies things.

 Overview Of The New Tax Law. The New Tax Law contained numerous provisions intended to provide tax breaks to all segments of the economy:
 Middle-income earners benefit from a payroll-tax holiday
 Lower-income earners benefit from continued expanded availability of child credit and other breaks Higher-income earners benefit from lowered estate tax rate
 Small businesses benefit from increased "Section 179 expensing" and other tax breaks[1] Bonus depreciation is primarily useful to very large businesses spending more than $2 million on new capital equipment in 2011 and, to a lesser extent, in 2012.[2] Small businesses are less likely to benefit from bonus depreciation because they can already write off 100% of equipment costs up to $500,000 (previously, $250,000).[3]
