Thanks for your help on this. Phil Enis and I chatted briefly and considering the number of people working on this in each of our organizations we thought it would be best to have a single point of contact on each side to coordinate comments on the hydro test communications. It would be me on our side and I would suggest Michelle Cooke for the CPUC. Does that make sense?

Also, FYI, we will be sending out letters at Jackie Speier's request to customers who are within 200 feet of a gas transmission line telling them that they are within 2000 feet of such a line. Those letters will go out later this week. I will send you a copy as soon as I get a copy.

Hey Bill-

Just spoke with Karen Miller who let me know the Judy Cooper, one of our Asst Public Advisors, is reviewing these documents. It seems that a number of folks are involved so it would probably be good to have a single point-of-contact for PG&E and one for the PUC - my 2 cents.

I did a quick review of the docs and will offer a few comments after I hear back from Judy. Karen Miller will also take a look at the docs tonight.

Phil:

Thanks for helping expedite the review of our model customer outreach letter telling customers near each hydro test about the test procedures, timing of the test and information on the open houses that will be held prior to each test. Assuming we get other approvals from the CPUC we'd like to start mailing notifications in the next couple of days to the areas around the first test sites which will be in Antioch and Mountain View. I have included some other materials that we are developing to provide you with some additional related information. I am not sure how wide our distribution will be on those items so I would appreciate it if you could keep them to your own work groups until we finalize the documents and the details on their use.

I look forward to you feedback and thanks for your help.
