Seems like a very poor use of resources. No one here even knows who gets them and the employee groups are self-funded.

okay, thanks.

I'm hopeful we can get our ethics lawyers and the FPPC to back down. But please wait to hear back from me. Thanks.

It means that out of the 20 awards or so only 10% can be children of employees (assuming they apply)).

I don't understand what you mean by the sentence reading: "They also restrict the awards to PG&E employees."

Yes. She was notified of a $3000 award. I don't even know her name. The Women's Network bases the awards on income. They also restrict the awards to PG&E employees. Open to anyone in our service territory online.

What's the timing on this scholarship award? I have gotten some indication from our conflicts attorneys that it might not be a problem, but they need a couple of days to confer with the FPPC. When will the Women's Network be making the scholarship awards? (I hope this train hasn't already left the station.)

Thanks.

Brian,

I also wanted to bring the below issue to your attention. As President of the Women's Network, I was alerted of a CPUC attorney investigating a conflict of interest regarding a scholarship we plan to award a dependent of an employee at the CPUC. Our scholarship application did not ask where the parents worked, so we did this unknowingly and will revoke it should the Legal Division or their outside counsel find it a conflict. See below for more description.

I will be out next week but Joyce Ibardolasa and [Redacted] who both sit on the PG&E Employee Community Fund (ECF) board are aware of the issue should you have questions.

Thanks,

John,

I'm not sure who we should alert in Regulatory Relations, but Linda Filchev from the Legal Division at the CPUC has spoken to both myself and [Redacted] about a scholarship the PG&E Employees Community Fund (ECF) awarded to a dependent of an employee at the CPUC. The award was made by the Women's Network Employee Resource Group. I think they are trying to determine if there is a conflict of interest.

As background, the ECF is a 501(c)(3) organization that awards scholarships that are funded primarily from employee contributions from the Campaign for the Community. For 2011, the ECF is awarding $256,500 in scholarships to 154 students in the PG&E service territory. Neither [Redact] or I know which award recipient is the dependent of the CPUC employee.

Should someone in Reg. Rel. be made aware of the issue?

Hi Redacted

FYI, one of our Women's Network Scholarship Recipients has a parent at the CPUC. Linda is a Conflict of Interest Attorney at the CPUC and just wants to ask you a few questions to confirm there is in fact no conflict of interest.

Sincerely,

Redacted
