No. This was something at the shipyard as I recall. Maybe two years ago. We met with these folks at the PUC.

Not that I am aware of. Do you know if this is the project that was marketed by Larry Asera out near American Canyon. I saw a slide package from 2010 browsing the internet where he references PG&E as the offtaker on a 6.7 MW project but I am not familiar with it.

Brian:

Checked with our group and nothing from what we can see suggests they bid into the latest PV RFO or the general RPS RFO.

No one with those details bid into the RPS or PV RFOs.

I received a call from Commissioner Simon regarding feedback he received on a solar proposal for the Mare Island Shipyard. Recall, that well over a year ago a politically connected group presented a proposal to PG&E to build solar on the abandoned naval base. I haven't heard anything regarding that project since then and now the Commissioner says that the venture partners are not seeing any progress with PG&E. Can someone give me a status update on this ? I'm assuming they are out of the money. Did they participate in the RFO ?
