Update - folks worked over the weekend to get responses out. There are now only two that are "late", and about 10-11 responses from the very last batch that we intend to get out by the end of this week.

Julie and Michelle -

Gary contacted me that PG&E has again been lagging on the discovery responses. He emailed Bruce, of PG&E, yesterday but have not yet heard back. Unfortunately, it is delaying the completion of the report.

To date, PG&E has only answered 24 of the 59 questions in the ninth data request--dated Oct. 6th.

"Back in mid-October, PG&E indicated it would answer the questions as the responses became available but would have the entire ninth set answered by November 4 (last Friday). On October 28, I asked them to do what they could to speed that up. Somehow that has turned into answering less than half of the questions by November 4."
