Colette,

Sorry this took so long, but our team confirmed today that Commissioner Sandoval's efforts in reaching a settlement in the bonus depreciation proceeding will allow PG&E to invest nearly $800 million throughout our service area and create about 4,800 new jobs.

In LA, I used the figures of nearly $1 billion and 6, 000 jobs, but these amounts included the effects of bonus depreciation prior to the CPUC's decision.

Colette,

I've asked my team to double-check the stats I shared and summarize others that may be of interest. We're working to get this to you by Friday.

Hi Tom, at an event that both you and Commissioner Sandoval attended recently, I understand you mentioned positive statistics about the successful outcome of the accelerated depreciation proposal that you and the Commissioner worked on early in her term.

Would you please provide us with a high level summary of these metrics so we have the most up to date information?

If we could receive this sometime this week, we would greatly appreciate it! Thanks so much.

Best Regards,

Colette

Commissioner Sandoval, Ditas, and Colette,

Tony Earley and I greatly appreciated the opportunity to meet with you on September 29. During the course of the conversation, I felt that a number of important issues were raised that deserved a more thorough response.

Attached is my attempt to summarize these issues, along with PG&E's response. If you'd like additional information, please let me or Brian know.

Thanks.

Tom
