Hi

Each consultant will look at one aspect of your proposal from both the safety and security perspective. So, consultant A in charge of reviewing electric distribution & transmission will review safety and cyber security proposals made by PG&E while consultant B will review your gas distribution safety and security proposals and consultant C will focus on generation safety and security. Is that more clear?

IS the third party going to do electric, gas and cyber ? Are they not doing generation or has it been placed in electric ?
