Alope,

I'm glad you found our discussion helpful. As discussed, attached is PG&E's confidential testimony from the 2008 long term RFO. It describes the evaluation protocols used for that solicitation. While these protocols are subject to change and updating for future solicitations, you may find that this testimony provides useful insights into our general evaluation approach.

Best regards,

Erik

I just wanted to thank you for taking the time to chat with me. It was very helpful in getting a good overview of how the RFO evaluation process might address storage based bids. After some more reflection on our discussions, I may want to follow up on some specific elements of the eval process to delve into more details as part of the ongoing research effort.

Thanks.
