Subject: RE: AMI numbers

For PG&E and SDG&E:

I have not received a response to this request. Any idea on when I can expect it? As explained previously, Question 3 is looking at of the people on the delay list, how many have ok'ed the installation of AMI.

Thanks again for your help!!!

Chris

Subject: AMI numbers

All:

By Monday, July 9, could y'all provide me with the following information:

- 1) Number of customers on a delay list;
- 2) Number of customers that have affirmatively opt-ed out of AMI (by total number, percentage of delay list and percentage of total customers)
- 3) Number of customers that have ok'ed the installation of AMI (total number, percentage of delay list and percentage of total customers)
- 4) Number of customers from delay list that have not acted (total number, percentage of delay list and percentage of total customers)

I am scheduled to give a short status update to the Smart Grid Interoperability Panel Business and Policy Working Group on July 11, and the status of California opt-out is one of the things I was asked to discuss.

The data can be current as of July 1.

Thanks, and please let me know if you have any questions.

Chris
