Subject: OPR Webinar: UCLA Energy Mapping/Data

Hi Matthew, [Redacted]

I wanted to invite you all to join a webinar next Tuesday, July 17 from 11:30am-12:30pm hosted by the Governor's Office of Planning and Research, on UCLA's recent energy mapping work using LADWP data. They've created several maps that assess the relationship between electricity use, socio-demographics and land use, as well as an interactive web-based map of electricity use in LADWP territory.

As we've discussed, we're hoping that UCLA's work helps point the way to a successful partnership between utilities, research institutes and local governments to aid in planning efforts. The webinar will be a chance to see more specifically the use of data, and hopefully help inform the forum with SCE later in July.

I hope you'll be able to join. You'll receive an Outlook invite shortly.

Best,

Randall Winston
