Greg, thanks for the response. Unfortunately, my question got lost in translation.

For Commissioner Simon's testimony before the House Subcommittee on Economic Development field hearing in Stockton on August 16, Chairman Denham left the record open for 15 days so that witnesses could provide followup testimony. Melissa Lavinson guessed correctly as to the origin of the question.

Chairman Denham asked Commissioner Simon for information on utility emergency/disaster preparedness plans specifically tailored to the Delta and the Delta levees.

It would be most helpful if you could simply reference the document(s) where such plans are included, along with the page numbers. I was unable to find such plans online.

Thank you.

Please note that I do not normally work on energy matters, and was unable to identify our PG&E contact yesterday; hence my call to your office. Thank you again for your response.

Penny,

Per our previous discussions. Attached is the contact information for two individuals who we'd suggest Commissioner Simon's office call for more information as a follow up to the Transportation and Infrastructure Committee hearing that was recently held in Stockton. Let us know if we can provide further information or assistance.

Thanks for checking in, Greg.

I would suggest that the Commissioner's office contact Jason Larrabee (chief of staff to Cong. Denham), who served as one of the main points of contact for the emergency response congressional field hearing in Stockton on Aug. 16th that Melissa mentioned below. CPUC may also want to contact Johanna Hardy (counsel to the House Economic Development, Public Buildings, and Emergency Management Subcommittee, of which Cong. Denham chairs) if they don't get an immediate response from Jason. The contact information for Jason and Johanna are attached – and both staffers attended the Stockton field hearing with Commissioner Simon.

Please let me know if you need anything further.

Thank you.

-Matt

Greg --

It is likely that these remarks were made during the House T&I Field Hearing in Stockton, at which Commissioner Simon was a witness. I am copying [Redacted] who worked with Denham's staff to provide our written testimony as well as educate them on our emergency response efforts.

Matt, who do you suggest the Commissioner's office contact.

Melissa,

We've received a call from Commissioner Simon's Office asking us for a follow up contact they can speak with regarding comments about "levee improvements" that were allegedly made recently when the Commissioner was at an event with Congressman Denham.

Does any of this ring a bell with you (the event where the Congressman and Commissioner were together)?

Greg
