Rows 12-13	Yes	Item VIII A) Bid information General Order 66-C.	Yes	Yes	Yes	This data contains bid/offer information and analysis and evaluation of offers that have not yet been executed. Because offers from the most recent Renewable Auction Mechanism (RAM) and offers received outside of that solicitation are under negotiation, releasing this information would be damaging to the negotiation process. This information would provide market sensitive information to competitors and is therefore considered confidential. I am informed and believe that General Order 66-C provides a basis for confidential treatment. General Order 66-C includes in its category of records not open to public inspection "Information obtained in confidence from other than a business regulated by this Commission where the disclosure would be against the public interest." (Paragraph 2.8). It is in the public interest to treat such information as confidential because if such information is released, it could impair negotiations with other offers.	For information covered under Item VIII A) remain confidential until after final contracts submitted to CPUC for approval. For information covered by General Order 66-C, remain confidential until no longer protected pursuant to the provisions of G.O. 66-C.

Disclosure of this information would provide valuable market sensitive information to competitors. Furthermore, the counterparties to the PPAs have an expectation that the terms of the PPAs and PSAs will remain confidential pursuant to confidentiality provisions in the PPAs and PSAs.	For information covered under Item VII F), VII G), and VII H), remain confidential for three years.

It includes, for example, information regarding the status and categorization of the developer's interconnection request. There are several reasons why it is in the public interest to protect the confidentiality of this information. First, disclosure of this information could discourage developers from frankly communicating project status to PG&E, and thus undermine PG&E's ability to adequately monitor RPS development progress. Second, PG&E's counterparties oppose making this information public. If this information is not protected, developers may not respond to PG&E's solicitation for bids, impairing PG&E's ability to increase its procurement of renewable energy resources. In addition, release of this information may result in developers increasing project costs in the future to compensate them for competitive harm resulting from disclosure. It is also in the public interest to protect the confidentiality of this information to ensure a vibrant, viable competitive market for renewable energy supplies. Disclosure of this information would provide valuable market sensitive information to competitors and could damage negotiations by providing information about other potential renewables projects.	Remain confidential until no longer protected pursuant to the provisions of G.O. 66-C.
