Advice 4131-E
(Pacific Gas and Electric Company ID U 39 E)

Public Utilities Commission of the State of California

Subject: Update to Accounting Treatment for Revenues Associated with the Power Charge Indifference Amount

Purpose

Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) requests that the California Public Utilities Commission (Commission) revise the accounting protocol related to positive revenues generated from the Power Charge Indifference Amount (PCIA) to record positive PCIA revenues in PG&E's Energy Resource Recovery Account (ERRA).

Background

The accounting treatment in place today for positive PCIA revenues was adopted in Decision (D.) 06-07-030 and dealt with stranded costs associated with the California Department of Water Resources (CDWR) revenue requirement. D.06-07-030 determined that a positive PCIA reflected the customers CDWR power charge obligations and, as such, positive PCIA revenues were remitted to CDWR consistent with the treatment originally adopted in D.02-11-022 for CDWR revenues paid under the 2.7 cent Customer Responsibility Surcharge (CRS) cap. Specifically, D.06-07-030, ordering paragraph (OP) 16 reads in part:

“Within 30 days after the effective date of this order, each of the IOUs shall file an advice letter to revise the DWR power charge component, currently identified separately on direct access non-exempt customers' bills, to be renamed the Power Charge Indifference Adjustment (PCIA) charge. The tariff revisions to implement the PCIA shall be subject to the following provisions:

- e) If direct access non-exempt customers' share of the indifference amount exceeds these customers' share of the ongoing CTC revenue requirement, then the difference is these customers' DWR power cost obligation. The PCIA charge is positive, and has the effect of decreasing bundled customers' DWR remittance rate, and therefore, for PG&E only, of decreasing bundled customers' Power Charge Collection Balancing Account rate.

- f) If direct access non-exempt customers' share of the indifference amount is less than these customers' share of the ongoing CTC revenue requirement, then these customers' DWR power cost obligation is zero. The PCIA charge is negative, and has the effect of increasing bundled customers' ERRR costs (for PG&E) or URG rates (for SCE). The PCIA charge (including DWR franchise fees) will be set in proportion to the ongoing CTC.

In compliance with OP 16, PG&E filed Advice Letter 2871-E on August 4, 2006 to implement the provisions of D.06-07-030.¹ Since implementing the revised CRS indifference methodology pursuant to the directives in D.06-07-030, the PCIA associated with CDWR contract costs has never been positive.

Subsequent to the issuance of D.06-07-030, the indifference concept and calculation methodology was extended to include new generation resource costs, which were approved for stranded cost recovery in D.04-12-048. D.08-09-012 approved the final calculation methodology associated with the new generation resource commitments authorized in D.04-12-048. The calculation was a modified version of the indifference calculation approved in D.06-07-030 and includes the addition of new generation resource to each utility's total portfolio of resources, by vintage. Decision 08-09-012 did not address accounting protocols related to positive or negative PCIA revenues generated for the vintage PCIA which included new generation resources.

PG&E's implementation of the vintaged PCIA, approved in D.08-09-012, began in 2010, with vintaged portfolios beginning in 2009. The D.04-12-048 PCIA is intended to recover stranded costs associated with PG&E's new generation resource commitments and CDWR contract costs and has generated positive PCIA revenues since 2010. However, the CDWR revenue requirement is not the cost driver for the positive PCIA result. Currently, there is just one remaining CDWR contract left in PG&E's portfolio, which is set to expire in mid-2015. The driver for the positive PCIA revenue is now related to PG&E's new generation resource commitments and will remain so into the future.

Request

PG&E requests that the Commission approve recording positive PCIA revenues associated with the vintage PCIA to ERRRA beginning January 1, 2013, which would coincide with implementation of electric rate changes that would be implemented through PG&E's Annual Electric True-up Advice Letter. PG&E proposes that the positive PCIA revenues be recorded to the same line item in ERRRA as the negative PCIA revenues, which are currently recorded to ERRRA pursuant to D.06-07-030 directives. The net result would be that all PCIA revenues, whether positive or negative, would be recorded to ERRRA. PG&E has modified the ERRRA preliminary statement accordingly to reflect the fact that all PCIA revenues would be recorded to ERRRA. The modification has eliminated the distinction between positive and negative PCIA revenues and instead simply reflects that the net PCIA revenues will be debited or credited to the ERRRA.

This change is necessary because, as noted above, the accounting protocol originally adopted in D.02-11-022 and continued under the D.06-07-030 directives does not appropriately match the vintage PCIA revenues with the underlying cost the PCIA recovers. As such, remitting PCIA revenues to CDWR when there are no longer stranded CDWR costs is not appropriate.

PG&E has attached a modified the ERRRA preliminary statement that would record PCIA revenues to ERRRA, and requests the Commission approve the revised preliminary statement CP.
