Practice the 30/30 Rule: If you see lightning and can't count to 30 before hearing thunder, go indoors. Stay there at least 30 minutes after the last clap of thunder.

If you're outdoors, get inside an enclosed building or vehicle (not a soft-top convertible). Avoid:

Open water, since it conducts electricity very well

Open vehicles, such as tractors, bicycles and off-road utility vehicles

Open buildings, such as carports or barns

Large flat open spaces

Tall trees, flag poles, ladders, antennas, etcetera anything high and/or conductive.

If you can't get to shelter, crouch down and tuck in your hands and head, so that only the balls of your feet are on the ground never lie flat on the ground. Drop any metal objects.

If you shelter inside a vehicle, don't touch anything metallic, including the radio and ignition.

If you find shelter inside a building, you may still be at risk. Avoid using electrical equipment, including computers and telephones, and stay away from plumbing and large tubs or pools of water.

Struck by Lightning: What to Do

Being struck by lightning is a serious medical emergency. Injuries can range from minor to fatal, and may not always be obvious or occur immediately. Therefore, it is important to get medical attention immediately. The victim does not carry an electrical charge, so move them to a safe area, call 911 and initiate appropriate first aid and/or CPR, if you are qualified to do so. If you are the victim, call 911 even if you do not think you have been injured. Health effects include:

Injury to the heart and/or lungs;

Brain damage, spinal cord injury or numbness/weakness in the limbs;

Sleep or memory disorders;

Flash burns or entry and exit wound burns;

Ruptured ear drums and eye injuries; and/or

Damage to internal organs, such as the kidneys.

Conclusion

The best protection against being injured at work or at home is recognizing potential hazards, knowing how to minimize the risk of injury and using that knowledge to protect yourself and others. PG&E employees often work outdoors in all types of weather, and Californians are known for spending a lot of time outdoors. It is easy to become complacent about the environment you are in, especially when you are being physically active. While it is certainly important to focus on the task being performed, it is just as important to take a look at the big picture. Remember: No one plans to get injured, but planning and preparation can easily prevent injuries from occurring.
