Meredith,

The Ex Director's resolution on this should be issued tomorrow.

Even so, I am very concerned about the pressure that AES and PG&E have put on ED over the past few weeks to get this out. I will always do my best to triage ALs and resolve issues that are on critical timelines as quickly as possible. But, if any of the utilities start to put artificial priorities on ALs I will begin to look for Chicken Little. To that end, can you explain to me again if there is a specific timeline NERC has put into place to meet the new NERC standards and if not, why this project could not have been delayed until the fall or next spring.

Thank you.
