Subject: Re: quick update?

Yesterday was the first day we had time to take Pam to a doctor!

Renovations are all just cosmetic stuff. Floors and countertops so renters can't destroy them.
Aiming to do everything cheap and fast!

Good luck with the phone ringing!

Wow – this is a lot of info. I am very happy about Rosa, of course.

“Renovations” sounds like a big thing, but maybe it will go fast – certainly easier now that it’s empty.

As for Pam, it sure is good you got her back to a doctor! I thought she had been before. Boot sounds easier.

I’m sitting by the phone, hoping Hagan will call . . . now that’s odd!

Bet Tanner is very happy you’re home.

Yes. She is quite happy actually. Pam took her to a doctor appointment today and I am with contractors starting the renovations to rent her condo. Rosa is happier too - likes her new dog walkers better than the old ones and has adjusted to her mom leaving for meals 3x per day. So pretty good so far. We are pinching ourselves that we seem to be getting our life back this week!

Pam also consented to a doctor visit and is now In a boot for 4-6 weeks instead of crutches. She has tendinitis in her left tubular tendon. But that is better than the arthritis that they initially suggested.

Thanks for asking.
