Subject: Invitation: Safety Leadership Workshop & Annual Company Emergency Exercise
General Hagan, Liza,

PG&E is conducting a series of Safety Leadership Workshops that all leaders at PG&E will attend. These sessions were developed by a team at PG&E with input from officers, including Tony Earley and Chris Johns. They build from the example of Alaska Airlines' successful change in safety culture to introduce PG&E's new approach to safety in the wake of the San Bruno tragedy. A key result of these highly interactive small group sessions is that each leader will identify actions they will take to improve the safety climate at PG&E. The program is being rolled out to over 3,000 employees throughout the company.

We would like to invite you to attend one of the upcoming workshops on April 30, May 9 or May 16. They run from 8:00-3:00 and are held at our San Ramon conference center. If you are interested and those dates do not work, please let me know and I will make other arrangements to suit your schedule.

Also, PG&E is conducting its annual company Emergency Exercise on June 5. The exercise will provide PG&E Emergency Operation Center staff an opportunity to work with elements of the Company Emergency Plan and identify process improvement opportunities. I will send more information on the exercise in the coming weeks but wanted to let you know the date well in advance in case you are interested in attending.

Best regards,

Meredith
