That's hot! Would have been better if that was the prize for the provo rugby tournament.

I ordered a bagel slicer from Amazon.com so I can safely slice bagels at work to be toasted in the break area instead of buying them in the lobby. Finally had a chance to try it out after going the Tustin Costco and bringing back a couple of packs of bagels on my way back from the rugby championship game in Provo. Works great! If you have bagels to slice, please stop by 1010. Just lift up the top part, with the slicer safely protected behind a pastic shield, put your bagel into the bottom part, and slice!
