SAN FRANCISCO, Calif.— PG&E Corporation (NYSE:PCG) today announced the election of Dick Kelly, retired Chairman and CEO of Xcel Energy, to its Board of Directors and to the Board of Directors of its subsidiary, Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), effective today.

“Dick brings to us more than 40 years of diverse industry experience and leadership, with special expertise in clean energy, including nuclear and renewable power,” said Tony Earley, Chairman, CEO and President of PG&E Corporation. “We are fortunate to have the benefit of his insights as we work hard to win the trust and loyalty of our customers and stakeholders through superior service and delivering on our promises.”

“I look forward to helping PG&E achieve its mission of becoming the safest, most reliable gas and electric utility in the country,” said Kelly. “I am honored to join such a talented and accomplished set of directors and executives.”

He became Chief Financial Officer of New Century Energies, which was formed from a merger of Public Service Company of Colorado and Southwestern Public Service Company. His later leadership positions followed the merger of New Century Energies and Northern States Power Company to form Xcel Energy.

He currently serves on the board of Canadian Pacific Railway and as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Regis University in Denver. He previously served as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Science Museum of Minnesota, a board member of Capital City Partnership, and a member of the Minnesota Business Partnership, the National Petroleum Council, Colorado Concern and Colorado Forum.

Kelly earned both a Master’s Degree in Business Administration and a B.A. in Accounting from Regis University. He attended the University of Colorado’s Executive Education Conference and the University of Michigan’s Public Utility Executive Program.
