

(1) The PG&E reply to my question regarding PSEP reporting states that:

“PG&E made no reference to NDE contractor issues in the PSEP Q1 quarterly compliance report. PG&E highlighted this issue within the Q2 report, where it solely related to the issue identified with TCI NDE services.”

I have the PSEP Q1 report in front of me and it says (p14):

“An example of this is when performing a Non-Destructive Examination (NDE), a contractor did not follow proper procedure when they were setting up their equipment to perform testing on a weld. The contractor was lowering the NDE testing tool into the bell hole by the cable. This improper handling of the equipment may damage the connections and result in equipment damages. On the same job, the contractor dialed to follow PG&E’s procedure to set up the perimeter before performing the NDE (X-ray) of the welds. The contractor was advised and both items were immediately corrected.”

Here is my question from before, restated for clarity. For the NDE contractor issue mentioned on p14 of the PSEP Q1 report:

- What was the date when the issues described were observed
- Which contractor was involved

(2) In previous correspondence (e-mail on August 16), PG&E stated that: “PG&E took immediate action to terminate all further TCI inspection activities on March 28, 2013”.

In the latest reply to questions, there is a statement that: “PG&E’s issuance of a stop all work notice to the contractor on April 1, 2013”

What is the correct date on which PG&E terminated further work by TCI?

(3) Is there any documentation, such as e-mails between Rudy and Modena in the March 26th – April 1 timeframe? Alternatively, are there any e-mails between Rudy and others at PG&E that mention his conversations with Modena?
