Hi Brian:

This issue regarding a customer (gas and electric) distribution connection for a new construction hit my desk. The contract number is listed in the subject of this e-mail.

The customer is concerned about excessive overhead and profit for the subcontractor, among the general reasonability of ~$35,000 in costs.

Can you please put me in contact with whomever is involved with ensuring these contracts are reasonable and that all low-cost alternatives have been considered? This cost to connect is drastic, and the customer wants to make sure there are no excessive fees involved.

Any help you can provide is greatly appreciated.

Kind regards,

Brian Stevens
