Subject: ISO proposals regarding Track 2 and Track 4 in the LTPP Proceeding

To ALJ Gamson and the Parties of Record:

Yesterday at the prehearing conference I agreed to send an email outlining the ISO's proposed procedural schedules for Tracks 2 and 4 in this proceeding. Here are the proposed schedules that I described yesterday:

Track 2

The ISO proposes that the Track 2 system flexibility needs be addressed in 2014 so that any Track 4 decisions (interim or final) that have been issued can inform the ISO's system flexibility studies. By deferring the Track 2 system studies until after the Track 4 local resource information is available, the ISO would also be able to incorporate any updated scenarios that might be developed in the proceeding during late Q3 and Q4 2013. The ISO will pick up these updated scenarios (if any) for the Track 2 studies that would take place during 2014, with study results as to system flexibility and operational needs submitted through testimony in Q3 2014. The Commission will then be able to issue a decision as to system resource needs by the end of 2014.

Track 4

It is the ISO's position that a holistic decision, including transmission alternatives, should be issued by the Commission as soon as possible. The ISO will be able to provide testimony as to the transmission alternative study results (including reactive power needs) as soon as January, 2014, and would encourage the Commission to issue a decision on additional resource procurement, in addition to the procurement authorized in Track 1, during late Q2 2014 or early Q3 2014. If the Commission determines that an evidentiary hearing is not needed, a decision could be issued early Q2 2014.

The ISO recognizes that SCE and SDG&E have requested additional procurement authorization for 500MW (SCE) and 550MW (SDG&E). In its August 5, 2013 testimony the ISO identified local capacity needs for the LA Basin and San Diego study areas that are in excess of these amount. The ISO would not object to an interim decision regarding the narrow issue as to whether the additional procurement requested by these parties should be authorized before the ISO's transmission studies are completed. However, this interim procurement authorization should be contingent upon the ISO's transmission study results, given the very distinct possibility that transmission alternatives could change the need for local resources in the study area.

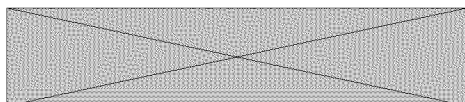

Should the Commission determine that an evidentiary hearing is required on the issue of additional resource procurement authorization, the ISO would encourage this hearing to be very limited in scope and scheduled for only 1-2 days. This will permit the ISO to continue its transmission evaluations and not divert needed resources to a lengthy hearing process regarding the interim procurement request.

Thank you,

Judi Sanders
