Re: Implementation of the Catastrophic Event Memorandum Account for September 2013
Clover Fire

Dear Mr. Clanon:

In accordance with Commission Resolution E-3238, dated July 24, 1991, and the associated PG&E currently effective tariff sheets (Electric Preliminary Statement Section G), PG&E hereby provides notice that PG&E is recording in the electric Catastrophic Event Memorandum Account (CEMA) the costs associated with repair of facilities and restoration of service following the "California Clover Fire" that began on September 9, 2013.

PG&E is submitting this letter to preserve the option of filing an application for cost recovery under CEMA provisions at a later date. Details about the disaster, the effects on PG&E's facilities, and the estimated restoration costs are provided below:

1. Disaster

On September 10, 2013, the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) issued a Fire Management Assistance Declaration for the California Clover Fire (FM-5050) under the Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act, 42 U.S.C. sections 5121-5206, proclaiming a state of emergency in Shasta and Tehama Counties. The wildfire damaged public structures and private residences in the area and required evacuations.

2. Effects on PG&E's Facilities

The wildfire damaged 208 electric distribution facilities throughout Shasta County. The wildfire is estimated to have disrupted service to 2,575 customers.

3. Estimated Restoration Costs

PG&E estimates it has incurred approximately $2.1 million of incremental costs due to the wildfire, of which $1.8 million is estimated to be capital related and $0.3 million is estimated to be expense related. PG&E continues to assess the total repair and restoration costs incurred and will supplement this letter should further damage be identified.
