Thanks Brian, and hello Greg and everyone.

As you probably know, I'm a new guy here at CPUC. So I must admit I'm still struggling up some tall learning curves. If you don't mind, I think one of my first order of business is just to learn what you do and how you do it. Then perhaps we can talk more about how to align and enhance efforts.

I'm thinking a one-hour meeting should be enough to get started, focused on current community engagement strategies and programs by PG&E around the PSEP work, since we have a good recent example to work from and probably plenty of opportunity coming up!

Would next Friday the 18th work for you, in the afternoon? Or we can look at the following week. We can host at CPUC, or I could perhaps come to you. Let me know what would work well for you.

Thanks,
Brian

Brian,

Very pleased to meet you and looking forward to talking with you soon. I've copied Tim Fitzpatrick, our VP and Chief Communications Officer, whom we also like to meet you.

Very best regards,

Greg

suggested that it would be good idea to sit down with PG&E to discuss our community engagement plans going forward so that we could coordinate and perhaps enhance efforts on similar matters with the PUC. I support this concept and I wanted to put Brian in contact with two of the principal architects responsible for those plans at PG&E. Brian - let us know some dates in the future that might work for you to meet with Travis and Greg and we will accommodate your schedule.
