Guys - can PG&E stop mucking up even the smallest of the small issues. you guys need to get off your slump and start being the great utility that you once were. I feel bad, because you can't seem to get up and can't help but to keep falling. Get up!

This particular incident has caused Carol Brown, Judge Amy, and myself hours of time. Hours that judge Amy could be working on her other case. Anyway, please train your customer reps, they're the fact of PG&E.

Sorry if I'm preaching, I don't mean to be. I hope you guys rise up and get out of your slump soon.

Marzia --

We found the call, and indeed our customer-service representative (CSR) advised, in error, the customer to call the CPUC. One of the managers contacted this particular CSR and her supervisor and made sure she understands the problem, and we will be updating the script to make it absolutely clear that we should not pass the problem to the CPUC. This same manager is one of the trainers for the CSRs (they train constantly), and will maintain an emphasis on not passing the buck. As you know, the group at PG&E that works on complaints and speaks regularly with the CPUC complaints group understands that this is not the right way to handle customers, and works to get this kind of thing correct.

So, thanks for pointing this out.

Was there another example for us to work on?

yours, sid
