It's interesting you ask! I was just talking with David Applebaum about this today. Yes, we will get you some references. I know that Florida is one.

Should get it to you Monday.

Laura,

Could you have somebody send over more information about the states where the authority to write citations for dig-ins is delegated by the regulatory agency to other entities, such as fire department? I think one case that got mentioned was Virginia, but I can't remember...

Thanks,

Liza
