Subject: RE: Third Party Excavation Damage Contractors

Thanks for following up Dennis.

The person is [Redacted], and he will call you, probably in January. The original concept was that we would try to find some contractors whose failure to call USAA had resulted in a previously reportable accident that your team might already have reviewed and in your system. Then Gen Hagan would have a basis to take some action.

Its not yet clear that we have good candidates for that. Meanwhile the licensing board is moving forward on a couple companies, and we are kicking off our new program in January. We think that will be better suited to tracking offenders and could offer an opportunity for cpuc action. That is, when we have a cpuc- reportable incident involving one of the bad actors, we could alert you and request special attention.

Hope that makes sense.

Laura

Subject: Third Party Excavation Damage Contractors

Hi Laura,

During the preview meeting on Decmeber 5th of PG&E's upcoming GT&S case, you had mentioned that someone from PG&E will be contacting me in regards to third party excavation contactors that had dug into / damaged PG&E's facilities and they did not follow the requirements of CA Government Code 4216. Please let me know whom the contact person at PG&E is so that I can get started on this. Thank you.

Regards,

Dennis Lee, P.E.
