PART I: PROCEDURAL ISSUES (to be completed by Claimant except where indicated)

A. Brief Description of Decision:	Decision 13-12-053 finds that Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) violated Rule 1.1 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure by delaying by several months the correction of a material misstatement in pleadings to the Commission and by mischaracterizing the correction as routine and non-substantive "errata." The Decision fines PG&E $14.35 million for these violations.

¹ The Division of Ratepayer Advocates was renamed the Office of Ratepayer Advocates effective September 26, 2013, pursuant to Senate Bill No. 96 (Budget Act of 2013: public resources), which was approved by the Governor on September 26, 2013.

different recommendations. In the initial briefs, only TURN recommended that PG&E face the maximum $50,000 fine for its continuing (per day) violations. (ORA and CSB later endorsed TURN's proposal in their Reply Brief.) TURN's recommended total fine of $12.7 million was the closest of all the parties to the Decision's final $14.35 million fine. In contrast, SED proposed much lower fines ($75,000) based on a different statutory provision, ORA initially focused on structural remedies rather than fines, and CSB did not make a specific fine proposal.

In addition, as reflected in the entries in TURN's timesheet marked with the "Coord" (for Coordination) code, TURN and the other parties actively coordinated their efforts to minimize duplication of effort. Consequently, other parties devoted much of their time to issues on which TURN did not focus, such as attorney-client privilege issues (a focus of CSB's work), rebutting PG&E's claim that SED staff was fully aware of PG&E's errors (a focus of SED's pleadings), structural problems evidenced by PG&E's violations (a focus of ORA), and researching and rebutting PG&E's arguments regarding intent as an essential element of a Rule 1.1 violation (a focus of ORA). The coordination among intervenors was particularly evident at the oral argument in which TURN alone focused on providing a factual chronology related to PG&E's violations, allowing the other intervenors to address other issues.

For all of these reasons, TURN submits that the Commission should find that there was no undue duplication between TURN's participation and that of the other intervenors.

PART III: REASONABLENESS OF REQUESTED COMPENSATION (to be completed by Claimant except where indicated)

A. General Claim of Reasonableness (§§ 1801 & 1806):

a. Concise explanation as to how the cost of Claimant's participation bears a reasonable relationship with benefits realized through participation (include references to record, where appropriate)	CPUC Verified
Although the Decision did not have a direct impact on rates, TURN would submit that its participation had an important impact on promoting compliance with the Commission's regulations and, in particular, ensuring timely, candid and complete disclosure of material utility errors that the Commission previously relied upon in its decisionmaking. The benefits of such compliance – in terms of enhanced safety and more effective and efficient regulation – are sure to outweigh the relatively small amount of compensation that TURN claims here.

b. Reasonableness of Hours Claimed.

TURN was able to achieve its substantial contributions through the expenditure of a modest amount of time – less than 70 hours, which equates to less than two weeks of full-time work. TURN was able to be highly efficient because of Mr. Long's considerable previous experience – in this docket and in the enforcement cases, I.11-02-016 and I.12-01-007 -- dealing with PG&E pipeline safety and recordkeeping issues. As a result, despite the technical complexity of the underlying issues related to MAOP and recordkeeping, TURN did not need to retain an expert consultant. The only other attorney to incur time, Mr. Finkelstein, spent less than one hour researching a legal issue (responding to a PG&E due process contention) concerning the "harmless error doctrine" that drew upon his considerable appellate expertise. TURN's efficiency is further demonstrated by the fact that TURN's pleadings focused on the issues of most interest to the Commission in its Decision and avoided discussions that ultimately proved extraneous to the Commission's decisionmaking.

TURN here only claims hours that relate to its substantial contribution on the Rule 1.1 OSC and excludes hours that were devoted exclusively to the contemporaneously issued "Substantive OSC". Some hours that were common to both OSCs, denoted as GP (for General Preparation) in the attached timesheet, are included here because they were necessarily incurred in order to make TURN's substantial contributions to D.13-12-053

TURN submits that all of the hours claimed in this request were reasonably necessary to the achievement of TURN's substantial contributions, and no unnecessary duplication of effort is reflected in the attached timesheet.

TURN's request also includes 5.50 hours devoted to the preparation of this request for compensation by Mr. Long. This is a modest and reasonable figure that reflects the minimum time necessary to prepare a quality claim for compensation addressing all of the Commission's requirements. Mr. Long has prepared this request because of his role as TURN's attorney in this matter and his detailed knowledge of TURN's work effort.

c. Allocation of Hours by Issue

TURN has allocated its daily time entries by activity codes to better reflect the nature of the work reflected in each entry. TURN has used the following activity codes:

Code	Description	Allocation of Time
Rule 1.1	Work specifically related to the Rule 1.1 violations and fine amounts.	78%
Coord	Work specifically related to coordinating participation and avoiding duplication with other intervenors.	3%
GP	Work related to general participation in this matter, such as reviewing the OSC, and preparing for and participating in the September 6, 2013 OSC hearing.	10%
Comp	Work related to intervenor compensation.	8%

Because the August 19, 2013 OSC only identified one issue for this portion of the proceeding – whether PG&E should be sanctioned for violating Rule 1.1 – TURN did not subdivide its time devoted to the Rule 1.1 issue into other sub-issues. However, in the event the Commission would like a subdivision of this time, TURN estimates that its hours devoted to the Rule 1.1 issues break down as follows: 55% to the issue of delay in correcting the record, 35% to the issue of the misleading "errata" submission, and 10% to the size of and legal authority for the fine amounts. If the Commission believes that a different approach to issue-specific allocation is warranted here, TURN requests the opportunity to supplement this section of the request.

Comment I	Hourly Rates for TURN Attorneys:

² This information may be obtained at: http://www.calbar.ca.gov/.

^{*}If hourly rate based on CPUC decision, provide decision number; otherwise, attach rationale.

TURN seeks hourly rates for its staff attorneys at levels that the Commission has previously adopted, increased for 2013 consistent with Resolution ALJ-287. The following describes the basis for the requested rates.

Thomas Long: For Mr. Long's work in 2013, TURN seeks an hourly rate of $555. In D.13-05-007, the Commission approved an hourly rate of $520 for Mr. Long's work in 2011 and $530 for his work in 2012, based on the 2.2% cost of living adjustment in Resolution ALJ-281. Mr. Long's requested rate for 2013 is an increase of 7.0% from the requested rate for 2012. The 2013 increase is based on the general 2.0% increase provided for in Res. ALJ-287, plus the first of two 5% step increases available in the 13+ years experience tier. TURN has previously requested this 2013 rate for Mr. Long in A.10-02-005 et al, R.11-10-023 and A.07-06-031.

Robert Finkelstein: For Mr. Finkelstein's work in 2013, TURN seeks an hourly rate of $490, an increase of 2% from the rate authorized in D.13-08-022 for his work in 2012. This is the general 2.0% increase provided for in Res. ALJ-287. TURN has previously requested this 2013 rate for Mr. Finkelstein in A.10-02-005 et al. and A.07-06-031.
