I imagine there's a lot of crazy stuff going on – the polar vortex is causing a lot of problems. Thank goodness we're not in New England – they don't have enough deliverability for both high core and high EG demand. And storage is a wonderful thing!

We are fine. Interesting story. Calpine tells me back east, they shut in some of their plants and sold the gas to utilities for $125/MMbtu (their basis was $.00/MMbtu). Those are huge economic incentives. Do you think some of that could be happening too? During the last cold spell, we had over 5 Bcf of demand and only 1.2 Bcf coming in from the interstates (the rest was storage).

Bless you! I also heard that SoCalGas is going to have to curtail EG today or tomorrow – is PG&E OK??

There is a CD with the confidential attachments addressed to Commissioner Florio in today's CPUC mail run. I'm tracking down the PRG presentation.

Brian -- could I get a copy of the full confidential filing on this? Also, if you have some sort of summary presentation already prepared, perhaps for the CAM group, I would like to see that as well. Please do not interpret this request as an indication of any particular concerns, but rather as just an indication of interest. Many thanks, Mike
