Actually, I might have good luck with the parking spaces at NBerk if I arrive before 700a. At worst I could ride to Berkeley. I'm excited. I need to work on the clothing issues this weekend, hope to start in a couple of weeks. I am a bit worried that the time will get eaten up with the return locker-room stop - but 1) I won't have to wait for the bus, which adds 7 mins (expectation value) each way, and 2) I can take any train back to Berk without having to worry about the 30min 65 bus frequency. I think I'll need a second helmet, since my drying spot for it at home works much better than bike lockers or PG&E lockers.
