Subject: R1309011 Email Ruling Granting Two Motions from EnergyHub

Pursuant to Rule 1.4 of the Commission Rules of Practice and Procedure, on March 10, 2014,
Alarm.com and EnergyHub (EnergyHub) filed a motion requesting party status in Rulemaking

13-09-011. Simultaneously, EnergyHub filed a separate motion requesting to late file comments to the January 31, 2014 Ruling Providing Guidance for Submitting Demand Response Program Proposals (January Ruling). As described below, this email ruling grants EnergyHub party status and permits it to late file its comments to the January Ruling.

In its Motion for party status, EnergyHub explains that the two companies, Alarm.com and EnergyHub, have combined and together have two million subscribers throughout the country with a substantial portion having an internet-connected thermostat. EnergyHub states that it will focus on several issues in this proceeding including: how the needs of residential and small commercial customer classes can best be integrated into transition year demand response programs and future demand response markets in California; market designs for increased third-party aggregators to participate in demand response markets; and strategies for integrating residential and small commercial customers into utility-administered demand response programs and future demand response markets under the contemplated “bifurcated” markets.

EnergyHub’s request for party status meets the requirements of Commission Rule 1.4(b) which requires a person seeking party status to 1) fully disclose the entities in whose behalf the motion is made and the interest of such persons and 2) state the factual and legal contentions that the person intends to make and show that the contentions will be reasonably pertinent to the issues already presented. EnergyHub’s request for party status is deemed reasonable and, therefore, is granted.

In its Motion requesting leave to late file comments, EnergyHub explains that because its Motion for Party Status was pending, it was unable to file comments by the March 3, 2014 deadline established in the January Ruling. EnergyHub contends that its comments are pertinent to the issues addressed in this proceeding and the Ruling. EnergyHub further states that its comments will offer contentions that have not been addressed by other parties and will not affect the timelines in this proceeding. EnergyHub’s request to late file its comments to the January Ruling is reasonable and, therefore, is granted.

The Docket Office shall formerly file this Ruling.
