It's too boring to listen to, but this might be interesting for somebody. Strip my name, if you would.

Subject: Replay of All-Employee Call Regarding San Bruno Update

Regulatory Affairs Employees:

I hope you had a chance to listen to the all-employee call on Thursday regarding the Attorney General's investigation related to San Bruno. If you were not able to join the call, I highly encourage you to listen to the replay, which will be available through March 31. (See details below.)

Please speak with your supervisor as appropriate to reserve an hour for you to listen to this important call. Tony Earley, Chris Johns and Hyun Park answered dozens of questions from employees, thoroughly explaining our response and the potential impacts of the case.

As Tony and Chris noted, our strong belief is that allegations that PG&E intentionally violated the federal Pipeline Safety Act are not supported by the evidence. We believe our employees have always acted in good faith to provide our customers with safe, reliable, affordable and clean energy.

As this case plays out, perhaps over the next year or two, I encourage you to never lose sight of the important work we still have left to do and to always put safety first.

Thank you for your dedication and hard work, and if you have any questions about this matter, please let me know.

Tom
